A. Read the text below and respond to tasks A1 and A2.

When Sean Blanda started working remotely in 2017, the attraction of a “digital nomad” lifestyle – working at your laptop on the beach, say – wasn’t lost on him. But after two years of working from home, Blanda, an editorial director for a tech company based in Philadelphia, knows only too well the many pitfalls of this way of life, with the greatest being isolation.

“You’ll need a lot of quiet self-confidence,” he recently wrote on Twitter. “You won’t get the positive reinforcement you’d normally rely on from body language and the ‘vibe’ from being in an office.”

Beyond the lack of interaction with colleagues – there are no ideas by osmosis, no overhearing others talking – there is also the lack of interaction with the wider world. “The main way most of us are connected to our local, geographical communities is through work,” Blanda says. “When you remove that – when you’re not commuting, you don’t bump shoulders, you don’t meet the guy who happens to have a cousin on your block and now you’re friends – you have to work harder to feel connected.”

Indeed, there are problems with blurring the line between work and home. Working alone may mean greater flexibility and fewer interruptions, but it is in those small interactions with colleagues that connections are made. In addition, the biggest hurdle when you are alone is that there is no one to help you regain perspective when things are not going according to plan. Not knowing when to say no to work – or how to switch off for the day – can quickly lead to being overwhelmed.

And yet, in spite of the obvious challenges of bringing your work home, it seems it is worth it: the vast majority of remote workers report enjoying the way they live and work. Of the 100-odd remote workers interviewed in a study, only about six said that they would return to the office given the chance. Everyone else loved it. Some of the interviewees pointed out that, after all, they had worked so hard to make their house a home that it is naturally where they feel best. And that may be about as good as working life can get.

B1. Use the correct form of the following words (A-H) to complete the gaps (10-14) in the following text, as in the example. There are TWO words you do not need.

(5 x 2 points = 10 points)

A.	insulate	B.	intimate	C.	substance	D.	culture (example)
E.	expensive	F.	isolate	G.	entire	H.	unfortunate

The example is in bold and italics.

Cinema may never be the same again

Ever since the first cinemas were built, film has been the great egalitarian art form. Wealthy people went, the middle classes didn't sniff, but you could also take a date if you weren't rich and wanted a night out. Film's (ex.) *cultural function is (10) _____ allied to price. If it wasn't cheap, its power would diminish. This is one of the things that drew me and many others to it: going to the movies is for everyone.

That's over. Maybe not quite yet, maybe not (11) _____, but it's hard to foresee a future in which film-going as we know it doesn't become an elite experience. Poorer people will be priced out because the best form of (12) _____ from risk is with distance. And – as with houses or airplanes or iClouds – space is far from (13) _____.

Traditional cinema exhibition is doomed. And this, of course, will affect the sort of movies studios make. Nothing big-budget or risky will be green-lit unless it has a (14) _____, guaranteed small-screen audience.

B2. Fill in the gaps with two words in the statements of column B, so that they are similar in meaning to the statements (15-19) of column A, as in the example.

(5 x 2 points = 10 points)

Example: As soon as he got in, he saw the stranger pointing a gun at him.	On getting in, he saw the stranger pointing a gun at him.
COLUMN A	COLUMN B
15. Skiing is a safe sport but you absolutely need to obey the rules on the slope.	Skiing is a safe sport as _____ you obey the rules on the slope.
16. I am really sorry I gave you such short notice.	I honestly _____ giving you such short notice.
17. He is so set in his ways he will most probably not accept your suggestion of a change.	He is so set in his ways he is highly _____ accept your suggestion of a change.
18. The wind blew away the roof of the house.	The house _____ roof blown away by the wind.
19. Giving up at this point is out of the question.	By no means _____ to give up at this point.

- B3. Find the paragraph in column B (options A-F), which best follows each of the paragraphs in column A (items 20-24). There is ONE option you do not need.

(5 x 2 points = 10 points)

Peer pressure in adolescence: Choose your friends wisely

COLUMN A		COLUMN B
20.	Remember that parental favourite: "If all your friends jumped off a cliff, would you follow them?"	A.	Research has shown that risk-taking behaviour such as smoking, risky driving and substance abuse are far more likely in the presence of a group of friends than when alone. And people tend to spend more waking hours with peers in adolescence than in any other stage of life, both face to face and online. So, it seems that parental concern is justified.
21.	Peer pressure has rather negative connotations in society and in the media. But do parents really have a valid reason to be concerned about the negative influence of peers in adolescence?	B.	Adolescents played an economic game in a group, in which they had to divide coins between themselves and the group. During some rounds, online peers provided feedback on these decisions by clicking on 'Like'. The findings show that the changes in prosocial behaviour depended on the type of decisions liked by the peer group.
22.	Fortunately, this is just one side of the story.	C.	Obviously, the expected answer is a fierce "No, of course not".
23.	However, less attention has been paid to the effects of peer influence on the development of prosocial behaviour, e.g. volunteering or cooperation.	D.	Those same friends who encourage a teenager to jump off a cliff might equally tell him to stay safely on the edge of the cliff, do well at school or volunteer for an important cause.
24.	All in all, scientific evidence shows that parents have valid reasons to worry about negative peer influence.	E.	These findings imply that hanging out with the right crowd in adolescence may actually be beneficial.
		F.	Nevertheless, there may also be a positive side to peer influence, such that it might also lead to an increase in positive behaviour.

The Importance of Being Healthy

Nowadays, young people are often stressed and tend to lead an unhealthy, sedentary lifestyle. Therefore, it is more important than ever to highlight the benefits of healthy living and encourage young people to adopt a healthy lifestyle.

Clearly, eating well and doing regular physical exercise is good for us. Firstly, a well-balanced diet, combined with a regular fitness routine, keeps the body strong and active. It also boosts our immune system, helps prevent serious medical conditions like obesity and diabetes, and reduces other health risks, such as heart attacks.

A young person's hectic lifestyle often makes it difficult for them to follow a healthy routine, but there are some simple steps they can take towards this goal. Just adding fruit and vegetables to their diet on a daily basis and avoiding high calorie junk food will have enormous benefits. As regards exercise, they can easily incorporate some physical exercise into their daily routine, such as taking up a sport or following an online fitness course at home.

It is obvious that a combination of a nutritious diet and regular exercise is extremely beneficial and so every effort must be made to encourage young people to adopt a healthy lifestyle.
